Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Having read of the proposed punitive phase of the Microsoft Antitrust Case, I find it totally inadequate. What is proposed is little more than another advertising venue for Microsoft. It is woefully inadequate.

Brokered by the Bush Administration, this deal is a typical example of the depths to which modern conservatism has sunk. The regime is well-known for selling out to corporate contributors, so it comes as no surprise that they would not just let Microsoft off with a slap on the wrist, but actually come up with a "punishment" that actually helps the company in question to INCREASE its monopoly.

Give us a REAL settlement.
